"Oh, no!"

Mickey Barnes' wail of woe brought the other Hot Wheels out of Wheeler Motors where their meeting had just concluded. They found their dapper comrade standing beside his street 'n' strip machine and at first they didn't understand the reason for his anguish.

"The Holley quads are missing!" Mickey moaned.

Jack Wheeler looked and sure enough the dual carbs that Mickey had just installed on the hoodless hemi were missing, cleaners and all. Ardeth seized her chance to give him a comforting hug and Mickey was so upset that he submitted instead of making an instant escape as he usually managed.

"Your insurance should cover it, Mickey," Jack assured him, "but it may take a while for them to send the bread. Let's check the rest of the rods... whoever did it may have taken something else."

Nothing else turned up missing except Jack's Polaroid shades which he'd left dangling on the wheel.

"Come on, we've got to report this to the police," Jack told Mickey. Ardeth and Janet split and Moose stayed behind with Kip Clark to try to iron the bugs out of Kip's expensive foreign fuel injection system.

At the police station, Commissioner Martin, Janet's Dad, was conferring with Lt. Fahey at the desk. He listened while Mickey reported the theft of the Holley four-barreled carburetors.

"Wow!" Lt. Fahey grunted when Mickey told him what they'd cost. "This is getting worse. Commissioner Martin and I were just discussing the recent wave of car part thefts, mostly expensive stuff like this. Didn't you hear anything while it was happening? The sound of a car engine, doors slamming, things like that?"

Jack shook his head. "Nothing unusual, sir. We'll be on the look-out for them from now on, though."

Hot Wheels kept watch in the next week without any luck. Jack spent hours watching his own neat machine, waiting for someone to try for stuff like the stereo tape player he'd just put in but no one came near it. Moose was the next victim. He parked his 'Vette outside the Doc Warren's garage where their high school Auto Shop teacher was usually working on machinery. While he was checking with Doc on the theory of fuel injection systems, someone very quietly jacked up his Chevy beast and made off with his magnesium wheels and wide ovals.

Jack then called an emergency meeting of Hot Wheels!

"Someone knows our habits!" Jack told his friends. "When we park our wheels where we can watch them, they don't take anything. When we are busy with our normal activities and not watching the cars, they strike."

Janet was putting on make-up as Jack talked and now she looked up, pausing as she applied greenish goo to her eyelids.

"How do you like this, Jack?" she inquired.

Jack looked annoyed at the question "You never bothered with that stuff before, Jan," he snapped. "Don't you care about catching the thieves?"

She smiled.

"Of course... and you're going to catch them with this!"

Hot Wheels didn't waste any more time with all-night vigils watching cars. They just waited. Then, five days later, Kip's wheel covers were missing, Ardeth's woodie came up minus some goodies and Jack's front wheels were removed during a basketball game at the high school.

They gathered and went to the police station where Lt. Fahey was trying to keep his cool.

"You kids lost equipment too? If I catch them, I

Jan smiled at him. "They shouldn't be hard to find now, Lt. Fahey, I think if your men just look at night you'll locate some of the parts and be able to track down the thieves. This is how..."

After she explained, Lt. Fahey laughed and then each member of Hot Wheels accompanied a policeman as they began their search. An hour later, some of them had returned to the station house with prisoners.

It took until noon the next day to get confessions from two teen-agers. They'd been stealing parts for themselves and also sold other items they couldn't use on their own cars.

Lt. Fahey congratulated them, especially Janet Martin.

"That was a very bright idea, Janet," he told her.

She blushed, her eyes and skin clear and free of any make-up.

"I got the idea for painting H-W on the tires and parts when Ardeth and I experimented with luminous eye make-up and lipstick! You can't even see it in the daytime but it really shines at night."

Jack laughed.

"That's the first time I ever saw any sense in that luminous gunk," Jack remarked and the Hot Wheels all agreed.

PLAY 1970 BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL GAMES

Easy to play, real thrilling, exciting baseball with STRAT-O-MATIC. 480 big league players perform according to their actual abilities and your managerial decisions. You, the manager, call all strategy moves for all major league teams.

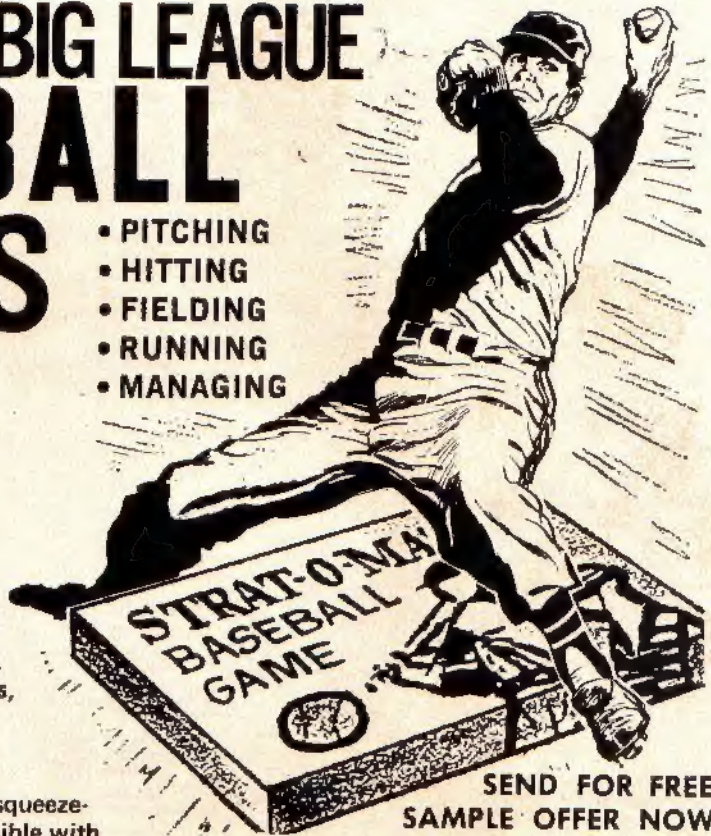

You, the manager, not only decide lineups, insert pinch-hitters, pinch-runners, and relief pitchers, play your infield "in or deep," and make defensive changes at any time, but also call for the sacrifice, steal, hit-and-run, and squeeze-play. All strategy moves are possible with STRAT-O-MATIC.

You have real control over all 480 major league players — who actually hit, pitch, field, and run according to their baseball abilities.

Each player has truly individual qualities. He slumps and goes into hot streaks, performs heroics and commits errors. With STRAT-O-MATIC all qualities of a ballplayer are realistic.

For example, in batting Reggie Jackson will be among the leaders in both home runs and strikeouts. Matty Alou will be among your batting average leaders, but will hit fewer home runs than the average ballplayer.

In pitching, Fergie Jenkins will display good control, be difficult to hit, but will yield more "gopher balls" than most major league pitchers.

In fielding, Curt Flood will make catches which other outfielders would fail to make. Brooks Robinson will make fewer errors and take away more would-be base hits than other third basemen. In base running, and stealing also, all players will perform realistically.
